(CONCORD, NC) – Oak Ridge Mayor Ann Schneider has been chosen to help lead the N.C. Mayors Association over the next year.

“I’m proud to have been elected to the Mayors Association board. I’ve already learned a lot from fellow mayors in this influential group, and look forward to helping lead the group’s efforts to strengthen connections among North Carolina’s municipal leaders,” said Schneider.

Schneider’s selection to the organization’s Board of Directors was announced during the organization’s quarterly meeting as a part of the N.C. League of Municipalities’ CityVision annual conference held in Concord on April 25.

She joins newly elected directors Morrisville Mayor T.J. Cawley, Murphy Mayor Tim Radford, Spring Lake Mayor Kia Anthony and Washington Mayor Donald Sadler.

Leland Mayor Brenda Bozeman was chosen as chair of the group, while Parmele Mayor Jerry McCrary was selected as vice chair.

Lenoir Mayor Joe Gibbons completes his term as chair of the organization.

At the meeting, Gibbons emphasized the importance of the collaboration and sharing of best practices that comes about through its membership.

“As mayors, we cannot do it alone, and this association provides us with a platform to build lasting relationships and work together to benefit our communities for years to come,” Gibbons said.
